Our Story

In February 2003, a group of women met and began to learn to quilt, each making a Log Cabin Quilt. From that group, the Bridge of the Gods Quilters began. These women come from North Bonneville, Stevenson, Husum, Cascade Locks, and Hood River. They meet weekly and the second Saturday of each month. Over the years, they have completed many quilts: many for Providence Hood River Memorial Hospital, to comfort community members, for kindergarten children when they were able to take a nap/rest during the school day, and for community people in remembrance of a loved one, and during a period of time, "pet beds" (from fabric scraps) for local clinics. This community of quilters wanted to share their love of quilting and one member suggested the idea of quilt blocks on homes and businesses for others to enjoy.

Please use this map to view the forty plus quilt blocks located in Cascade Locks area with more blocks being added monthly.
